

2019 YEAR IN REVIEW

Since 1989, The Governor's Prevention Partnership has been working with government and business leaders to keep Connecticut's youth safe, successful, and drug-free.

The Partnership has raised millions of dollars and impacted hundreds of thousands of Connecticut youth through our work in bullying and substance abuse prevention and leading mentoring as a prevention strategy.

The Partnership affects change by equipping, empowering, and connecting organizations, communities and families to promote positive youth outcomes.

Our Year in Review provides highlights of some of our most innovative and impactful work from the previous year.

ADVANCING PREVENTION

As a statewide convener and capacity-builder for youth prevention, The Partnership supports programs to promote evidence-based practices leading to the strongest possible outcomes.
